

Giving the major regional phone companies the power to squash smaller, independent ISPs would directly harm me as a consumer. I value customer service very highly. The service I get from my independent ISP is far and away better than that provided by SBC today.